Study looked at 45 pairs of siblings in high school on Long Island Compared intelligence scores and grades

Oldest children are smarter than their youngest sibling, according to a recent study conducted by a psychology doctoral candidate at Adelphi University in Garden City, New York.

The study supports previous research that suggests eldest siblings have higher intelligence than their younger siblings.

But it also found that younger siblings got better grades in school and worked harder.

Their achievements, however, could be partially explained by the fact their elder siblings mentored them.

‘Go ahead, take me to jail’: Ford

Despite run-ins with police, Ford insists he is still best bet for mayor

Toronto mayoral candidate Rob Ford revealed Thursday he was arrested in Florida in 1999 for driving under the influence and marijuana possession — one of several brushes with the law.

A City of Miami police affidavit states Ford was nervous after being pulled over while seen driving apparently without having any lights on.

When Ford, who had a strong smell of alcohol on his breath, stepped out of the vehicle, he took all of his money and threw it to the ground.

“Go ahead, take me to jail,” he’s quoted by the police report as saying.

Ford, whom recent polls suggest is the front-runner to replace outgoing Mayor David Miller, held a news conference outside his office Thursday about the incident. He said he wanted to “set the story straight” after a newspaper report revealed he was charged with having a marijuana joint in his pocket.

The pot possession charge was dropped, but Ford pleaded guilty to DUI for failing to give a breath sample to police.

“I am not perfect. I have never claimed to be perfect,” he said Thursday.

“I guess I had a few drinks at Valentine’s dinner with my wife. It was a mistake. I shouldn’t have been driving. And I owned up to my mistake.”

Ford said he paid a fine of about $500 US and did 50 hours of community service coaching football.

- Hockey fight. Ford said that when he was 18, he was charged with assault over a hockey fight. But that charge was dismissed, he said.
- 2008 incident. Charges of assault and threatening death involving a 2008 incident with his wife were also dropped, he said.
- Debate remarks. When a Tamil member of the audience at Tuesday night’s televised mayoral candidates debate asked about the role of refugees in the city, Ford replied “We can’t even deal with the 2.5 million people in the city. I think it’s more important that we take care of the people now before we start bringing in more.”

Lawyer hopes woman accused of faking cancer will make bail

Burlington woman reportedly told father she shaved her head, plucked eyelashes to mimic effects of chemo

The lawyer for an Ontario woman accused of faking terminal cancer and taking money raised to help her hopes she will be released from jail Friday, though he is concerned for her once she is out.

Police allege Ashley Kirilow, of Burlington, Ont., pretended to have cancer to raise money she promised to give to charity, but kept the cash for herself.

She is facing three counts of fraud under $5,000 and one count of fraud over $5,000. One of the allegations dates as far back as February 2009.

The 23-year-old appeared briefly via video in court Thursday to continue her bail hearing, which has already been postponed several times, but it was adjourned to Friday.

Once sporting a bald head covered with a scarf in photos posted on Facebook, Kirilow appeared on the television screen Thursday with short reddish hair.

She cast her eyes downward during the court proceedings, which lasted no more than a few minutes.

After Thursday's appearance, her lawyer, Brendan Neil, said he hoped she will be granted bail Friday and released. Kirilow was charged after turning herself in to police Aug. 7, and Neil said he hopes the initial outrage has had time to dissipate, as he is concerned about what will happen if Kirilow is freed on bail.

"I think there's concern with everyone involved on what could happen outside," he said outside court Thursday.

Backlash

- When allegations surfaced against Kirilow, public outrage was swift and furious. Vitriolic comments flooded news websites and a Facebook page for Kirilow's supposed charity, with some even saying they hoped she actually got cancer.
- Her parents have said they want nothing more to do with her, as have several former supporters.

Mystery man offers to post bail in cancer case

He was the only person in court not paid to be there, and you could not miss him.

Dressed all in black, his face all but covered in black tattoos, Bob Graham, 39, sat in the back of a Milton courtroom Thursday morning for a brief video-link appearance by Ashley Kirilow, the 23-year-old Burlington woman who gained international notoriety when she admitted to faking cancer to collect money for herself and is now facing multiple fraud charges.

After almost two weeks spent behind bars, Kirilow will have a chance to be released from jail Friday after her lawyer, Brendan Neil, told the court his client was ready for a bail hearing.

Graham, who wore dark sunglasses and a black cowboy-styled hat, offered to post bail for Kirilow, according to Neil, who refused to provide any other details or say if Graham would be returning Friday to post bail.

KEITH BEATY/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Bob Graham

"There have been offers to support her in that regard (by posting bail)," Neil said, but refused to elaborate.

Graham would not give any comment to reporters at court and when reached at home in the afternoon he again refused to say anything about the case or his interest in it.

"I have nothing to say about any of that. I wish her the best."

BOB GRAHAM, WHEN REACHED AT HOME FOR COMMENT

Kirilow's father, Mike, told the Star earlier this week that Graham called him last weekend to ask if he could post bail for his daughter.

Kirilow said he was concerned about Graham's motives because he had never met the man before, and as far as he knew Graham had never met his daughter. Kirilow added that he feared people might be trying to "cash in" on his daughter's story.

Police say a 44-year-old man from Bowmanville, Ont., is facing child pornography charges for allegedly pretending to be a 17-year-old online.

Toronto police, along with Durham regional police, arrested a man in Bowmanville on Wednesday. Police allege officers discovered that images of child sexual abuse were made available over the Internet from an address in Bowmanville.

Police say the man may have contacted children in Toronto and the Durham region, using the online identifiers of Joe Jones and jimdim69. Trevor Partridge has been charged with possession of child pornography, two counts of making available child pornography and making child pornography.

No charges in fire that killed cats

The manager of Toronto Animal Services says bylaw violation charges won't be pursued after a Toronto couple's house caught fire, causing the deaths of 27 cats and one dog Wednesday afternoon.

"We're going to approach this situation with a great deal of compassion," said TAS manager Eletta Purdy.

Heather Brown, of a group called Annex Cat Rescue, told the Star that the wife of the man who called in the fire is an independent cat rescuer who works with the organization. Brown says the woman took excellent care of the cats, and that most of the felines in the house were on a waiting list for foster homes. Many were recovering from recent illness.

BROWNING HOUSE FIRE

Attempt to dry seats reportedly started blaze

Maybe the first thing Kurt Browning should have tried was turning on the seat heaters.

Browning reportedly set fire to his Forest Hill mansion on Wednesday in a disastrous attempt to dry the seats in his Porsche convertible. The car had been left out in the rain with the top down.

According to Toronto Fire Services, someone decided to air them out with help from a leaf blower.

The noisy device was left running unattended in the figure skating star's garage. It apparently caught fire. The resulting blaze soon engulfed the home.

Minister wants comparison back

Energy Minister Brad Duguid insists price comparison document will return to ministry website ◗ Chart had been removed, sparking controversy

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Provincial Energy Minister Brad Duguid.

Energy Minister Brad Duguid says he'll make sure that consumers who sign retail electricity contracts are given a direct price comparison when they sign.

"We will not accept anything but a rate disclosure comparison," Duguid said in an interview Thursday.

He said he will speak to the Ontario Energy Board (OEB), which is drawing up rules for energy marketers, to make sure they require the marketers to provide price comparisons.

Duguid's comments came a day after the Toronto Star reported that the energy ministry had removed a draft price disclosure document from its website.

The retailer would be required to give the document to consumers who sign electricity contracts.

The draft document provided a side-by-side comparison of what a consumer would pay for electricity after signing the contract, and what the consumer would pay if he or she paid the regulated price for power.

"The sample was removed from the ministry website because the job of drafting a disclosure statement was given to the OEB," said Duguid.

"It would be confusing for Ontarians to have different proposed disclosure statements floating around."

But the current disclosure statement being proposed by the energy board does not have a direct, side-by-side price comparison.

"It's not acceptable that the comparison's not on there," Duguid said. "It's always been our intention to have it there, and it continues to be our intention, and it will remain thus.

"We'll certainly let them (OEB) know that we do not agree with the prospect of bringing forward a disclosure statement without the comparison of rates. We'll let them know that, and ensure that's clarified."

"The OEB has indicated that it's challenging to accommodate our request, but we're confident that we can find a way to meet that challenge."
ENERGY MINISTER BRAD DUGUID

Asked whether the energy board should draft its own model price comparison, Duguid replied: "They're going to need to, and we look forward to seeing that as soon as possible."

The price comparison disclosure is part of the new Energy Consumer Protection Act, which comes into force in January 2011.

The act will also address "excessive cancellation fees" on energy contracts, and "shady types of sales pitches" by energy marketers, Duguid said.

The energy board has pointed out that price comparisons aren't simple.

While retailers offer a fixed price for a given term, the regulated price is subject to regular adjustments.

Even those who sign a fixed price contract can't be sure of their exact price, because they have to pay an additional fee called the "provincial benefit," which changes monthly.

Facebook Places launches in U.S.

The launch of Facebook Places in the U.S. on Thursday turned heads in Canada. Facebook users who are happy to post pictures and declare what they are doing will now be able to use their mobile phone to "check-in" at their favourite bar, park, shop, or any place they like.

Fans of these location-based social-networking tools love the fact that they can tell their friends where they are at any given moment.

Of course, there are privacy concerns.

"We haven't had an opportunity to fully examine the new tool. However, this is something we are monitoring very closely," Anne-Marie Hayden, spokesperson for the Office of the Privacy Commissioner of Canada, said.

5% Percentage of U.S. Internet users who say they have used a location-based social networking service such as Foursquare, Loopt or Gowalla, according to a recent survey.

Facebook said that it will eventually let restaurants or shops claim their locations, which could open up possibilities for targeted ads, deals or coupons for loyal customers.

WATERFRONT TORONTO

▶ A rendering of Bonnycastle Street, planned as the heart of the new Bayside neighbourhood between Sherbourne and Parliament streets along Toronto's waterfront.

BAYSIDE DEVELOPMENT

'WE SEE THIS AS A PLACE TO LIVE, TO WORK, TO VISIT, TO SHOP'

Waterfront Toronto unveiled plans to build a massive $800-million neighbourhood Thursday.

Developers have dubbed the new neighbourhood Bayside, which will stretch along the water from Sherbourne to Parliament streets. Waterfront Toronto chose Hines, an American development company based in Houston, to build the project from a field of four finalists.

John Campbell, president of Waterfront Toronto, detailed the size of the project.

"The proposal to revitalize Bayside is the largest single development project undertaken to date by Waterfront Toronto," Campbell said of the area that will cover about 10 football fields.

Plans include 1,700 condominiums, office space for 2,400 jobs, a boardwalk and public access to a green roof overlooking the water. The heart of the project is Bonnycastle Street, according to Stanton Eckstut, one of the principal architects.

Cesar Pelli, the project's lead architect, gives the plans some star power. Pelli, former dean of Yale University's school of architecture, designed the Petronas Towers in Kuala Lumpur. His partner, Fred Clarke, designed Manhattan's World Financial Center.

Pelli wanted "to make the city reach the water comfortably — as part of the city, not as a foreign place. We see this as a place to live, to work, to visit, to shop, every day of the year, all day long."

The City of Toronto's executive committee unanimously approved the project on Monday. It will be presented for final approval at the upcoming city council meeting.

CNE explores love and lust

- Friday marks opening day at the Ex, which is in its 132nd year
- Just over one million people make the trip to the fairgrounds

When he was courting her in 1964, Don Fisher won his girl a blue stuffed dog in a game of skeeball at the CNE.

Over the years, that plush toy got pretty beat up, moving from one home to another, packed away in boxes or snuggled up to by their two children, Nicole and Neal.

Still, Sue Fisher hung onto it for the better part of her marriage. It was, after all, one of the first gifts her husband ever gave her.

"We did it the old traditional way," says Don. "Got to know each other a little bit, started to date and then got married."

The pair say there weren't any sweeping romantic gestures. "People didn't have an airplane cross the sky with 'Will you marry me?' hanging off the back," laughs Sue.

The Fishers, who now reside in Burlington, will celebrate their 42nd wedding anniversary next month.

Ask them and they will tell you time has flown by.

The CNE grounds are home to a storied history. And love has been a common thread connecting one year to the next and bringing individuals, just like Don and Sue, together.

So much so, that the CNE Archives is putting on an exhibit this year exploring the history of romance on the grounds.

Love, Longing and Lust at the CNE will be on display daily at the Direct Energy Centre during the Ex's 18-day stint.

Old photos date back to 1914 when wives sent their husbands off to the First World War from Exhibition Camp. In a 2005 photo, Laura Knorre and Alastair Macrae, married on the Ex grounds before the fair opened, are seen enjoying the Ferris wheel before the crowds arrived.

"The idea is that the CNE is a place where romance happens," said Meaghan Froh, who put together the exhibit.

"A lot of people have come here with special people." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Heart attack on a plate

Deep-fried butter, designer mac and cheese, and "cheeseburger in a bag" are some of the wacky, waist-expanding ways fairgoers can enjoy the CNE this year, along with typical vendor foods such as shawarmas, falafels, mini doughnuts and poutine.

PAKISTAN'S

Country's president says militants may exploit chaos of the flood by taking orphans and training them as terrorists

Islamist terrorists may exploit the chaos and misery caused by the floods in Pakistan to gain new recruits, the country's president warned Thursday — remarks echoed by a leading U.S. senator who said America would stand by its vital wartime ally during the crisis.

The floods have affected 20 million people and about one-fifth of Pakistan's territory, straining its civilian government as it also struggles against al-Qaida and Taliban violence.

"All these catastrophes give strength to forces who do not want a state structure," President Asif Ali Zardari said during a press conference with John Kerry, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, after the two visited some of the country's hardest-hit areas and a relief camp.

"None of us want to see this crisis to provide an opportunity or an excuse for people who want to exploit the misery of others for political or ideological purpose, and so it is important for all of us to work overtime."
U.S. SENATOR JOHN KERRY

"There is a possibility that the negative forces would exploit the situation," Zardari said. "Like they would take the babies who have been made orphans and take them to their camps and train them as the terrorists of tomorrow."

Islamist charities — at least one of which has alleged links to terrorism — have been active in the flood-hit areas.

At a relief camp in Jampur, hundreds of flood victims mobbed Zardari and Kerry, pleading for help. Women and children said they needed water and food.

There also are concerns the scale of the suffering could stoke unrest and political instability that may distract nuclear-armed Pakistan from the fight against the Taliban. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Canada is firm on its pledge to the nation

Canada won't immediately up the ante on aid for flood-stricken Pakistan, even though the United Nations wants $460 million in immediate relief and an American official says rebuilding will cost billions.

Foreign Affairs Minister Lawrence Cannon said there are no plans to spend more than the $33 million already allocated, but added "we are not closing any options to further assist the people of Pakistan in their hour of need."

Kathy Brock, a professor in Queen's University School of Policy Studies, said the government has become more cautious about disaster relief.

She said ordinary donors are also wary: "They responded quickly to the tsunami and Haiti and there were some questions raised afterwards about how the dollars were spent, whether charities had used them effectively." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Protect our aid workers in war zone

- That's the plea of Canada and the UN on World Humanitarian Day

Canada and the United Nations marked World Humanitarian Day on Thursday with this appeal to all sides:

Allow aid workers to do their work in Afghanistan unmolested.

"Canada strongly condemns acts that threaten the safety of humanitarian workers," said the Canadian government. # New payroll centre to boost N.B. jobs

Prime Minister Stephen Harper announced Thursday the creation of a civil servant payroll centre in a New Brunswick region bracing for job cuts if a move to abolish the long-gun registry proceeds.

Harper said the establishment of the facility in Miramichi would more than make up for any layoffs at the Canadian Firearms Centre, which administers the registry and employs about 200 people in the city.

ALLEGED 'HONOUR CRIME'

Weeping mother gets bail

A woman accused of trying to kill her teenage daughter in an alleged "honour crime" shed tears of relief Thursday as a judge granted her release on bail.

Johra Kaleki is now free to see all of her children — including the alleged victim — but must be accompanied by a responsible adult.

The mother of four blew a kiss to her husband across a Montreal court after the decision.

Police said after Kaleki's arrest in June that investigators concluded it was an "honour crime" after gathering evidence from the home, witnesses and the 19-year-old daughter.

Police said at the time the teenager suffered head, face, shoulder and arm injuries.

The Afghan-born Kaleki, whose family lives in suburban Montreal, faces charges of attempted murder, assault with a weapon and aggravated assault.

Kaleki, 38, was previously refused bail by a lower-court judge, a decision overturned Thursday by Quebec Superior Court Justice Martin Vauclair.

'Merchant of Death' facing legal D-Day

Will he be extradited to U.S.?

The suspected Russian arms dealer known as "The Merchant of Death" is optimistic a Thai appeals court Friday will refuse to extradite him to the United States, his lawyer said.

Viktor Bout, 43, is reputed to be one of the world's most prolific arms dealers.

He has allegedly supplied weapons that fuelled civil wars in South America, the Mideast and Africa.

Bout's arrest in a 2008 U.S. sting operation in Bangkok raised U.S. hopes for a quick handover.

Instead, it spurred a tug-of-war between Moscow and Washington.

Greens debate leadership vote

Still a chance there could be leadership review at convention this weekend Some Greens want review

Some current and former Greens say Elizabeth May's leadership isn't as black-and-white as the party has made it seem ahead of this weekend's convention in Toronto.

May's four-year term was supposed to end later this month. The party announced last week that its members had voted to keep her in the job until the next time Canadians vote.

But some Greens say May's hold on the top job is not yet a fait accompli.

They say Greens in Toronto still have to ratify the motion to keep May in the job, and until they do there remains a chance of a leadership race.

Blogger Jack Locke, who tried unsuccessfully to become the Green candidate in a Montreal riding two years ago, accused the party of misrepresenting the pre-convention vote.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Green Party leader Elizabeth May

He says the wording of a news release on the Green party's website makes it seem as if the motion to put off a leadership review is a done deal.

"You say that the thing has been passed when it has not been passed, and that the convention is just supposed to rubber-stamp the results," he said. "Well, that's not the way conventions normally work."

May says that's splitting hairs. "Press releases don't necessarily describe the minutiae of decision-making," she said.

Greens decide before the convention which motions they support.

Any motion that gets more than 60 per cent support before the convention is considered passed.

So it's unlikely Greens will vote for a leadership race since the motion to put off such a contest until after the next election got 74 per cent support in a pre-convention vote.

And 85 per cent of Greens voted to support May's leadership.

Bull had already attempted to jump into the stands twice Tried a third time and succeeded

A bull leapt into the packed grandstands of a Spanish bullring and ran amok, charging and trampling spectators and leaving 40 people injured, regional officials said Thursday.

Video showed the bull jumping several meters (yards) high out of the ring, clearing two barriers before landing in the stands and raising a panic as he lurched through the screaming crowd, charging and tossing everything he could. The 500-kilogram (1,100-pound) animal was brought under control by experienced bull handlers after several minutes and later killed.

The incident occurred Wednesday at the Tafalla arena in the northern region of Navarra during an event attended by about 3,500 spectators, in which mostly young people try to get a bull to charge at them so they can dodge it.

Officials call for end to South African public workers' strike Some violence reported Government says it can't meet unions' demands

A newborn died Thursday as he was being rushed from a rural government clinic shut down by South Africa's civil service strike, an example of the costs of a strike that has hit hospitals, schools and courts across the country.

On the strike's second day, Mpho Gabane, health department spokesman in the province of Mpumalanga, said the baby's mother had gone to the clinic in labour and experiencing complications, and found no nurses or doctors.

"This is related to the strike because had she been attended to earlier the child could have been saved," said Gabane.

Rig owner says BP has critical evidence

The company that owned the Deepwater Horizon oil rig, which exploded in the Gulf of Mexico, is accusing BP of withholding what it describes as critical evidence needed to investigate the cause of the worst maritime oil spill in history, according to a confidential internal document obtained by The Associated Press.

In a sternly worded letter to BP's attorneys, Transocean said the oil giant has in its sole possession information key to identifying the cause "of the tragic loss of eleven lives and the pollution in the Gulf of Mexico," and the company's refusal to turn over the documents has hampered Transocean's investigation and hindered what it has been able to tell families of the deceased and state and federal investigators about the accident.

U.S. President Barack Obama sternly warned months ago that companies involved needed to work together and with the government on the investigation.

Canada's Inuit stall EU seal ban

Ottawa will ask the WTO to establish a panel to determine whether the EU ban complies to WTO rules

Canada's largest Inuit organization has succeeded in stalling a European Union ban on imported seal products, marking a setback for animal welfare activists who argue the ban is needed to stop an inhumane slaughter.

The unexpected court ruling came a day before the ban was to take effect.

The Inuit Tapiriit Kanatami, which represents Canada's 53,000 Inuit, learned Thursday that the European Court of Justice had agreed to impose a delay because the court needed more time to consider the group's case.

The group and several other native and hunting groups — including Inuit from Greenland — filed a legal action with the court in January, claiming the ban was both illegal and immoral. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Domino effect

- Even though the EU ban exempts the trade in seal products from aboriginal groups, the Inuit believe their markets will plummet along with the industry.

'Intel Inside' gets a new meaning

Chipmaker buying computer security software firm McAfee $48 per share represents a 60% premium

Intel Corp. wants to be inside your television, your cellphone, your car and pretty much any device that could one day connect to the Internet and require a computer chip.

And with its deal to buy McAfee Inc. for $7.68 billion US, the world's No. 1 semiconductor company now wants to sell you security software as well.

The all-cash deal announced Thursday marks the biggest acquisition in Intel's 42-year history, an example of Intel's commitment to sell more than chips for personal computers and servers. It is the sixth biggest deal globally between two technology companies over the past 3½ years, according to Capital IQ, a division of Standard & Poor's.

▶ The entrance to Intel's Hawthorne Farm Campus in Hillsboro, Ore. Intel is buying McAfee Inc. for $7.68 billion.

Intel said security is now a fundamental component of online computing, but today's approach to security isn't adequate for the growing availability of Internet connections on mobile phones, medical devices, ATMs, automobiles and elsewhere.

The industry needs a new approach that combines software, hardware and services to meet tomorrow's needs, the company said.

Acquisitions

Intel has a history of dabbling in, and retreating from, markets outside its core business of building computer microprocessors.

- Toys. Intel once had a toy division that made microscopes and other gadgets, but gave up on it because of poor sales.
- Smartphones. Intel has been persistent in trying to expand into the market for the guts of smartphones and other Internet-connected wireless devices. McAfee would help Intel protect those devices.
- Software. Intel has made a series of recent software acquisitions including companies that specialize in gaming, visual computing, embedded device and machine software.

Half a million Americans lose jobs in a week

About 4.5 million receiving jobless benefits 5.6 million more on extended unemployment benefit rolls

The number of Americans applying for unemployment benefits reached the half-million mark last week for the first time since November, suggesting employers are laying off workers again as the recovery weakens.

It was the third straight week that first-time jobless claims rose. The upward trend suggests the U.S. private sector may report a net loss of jobs in August for the first time this year.

Initial claims rose by 12,000 last week to 500,000, the U.S. Labor Department said Thursday.

Homebuilders and other construction firms are laying off more workers as the housing sector slumps after the expiration of a popular tax credit for homebuyers. State and local governments are also cutting jobs to close large budget gaps.

9.5

The U.S. jobless rate has been stuck at 9.5 per cent for two months, well above the Canadian unemployment rate of eight per cent.

Economists have said high U.S. unemployment could slow or stall the recovery in not only the United States but also its major trading partners, such as Canada.

The U.S. jobless claims declined steadily last year from a peak of 651,000 in March 2009 as the economy recovered from the worst downturn since the 1930s. After flattening out earlier this year claims have begun to grow again.

Economist Robert Dye said that claims showed a similar pattern in the last two recoveries, but eventually began to fall again. The current elevated level of claims is a sign that employers are reluctant to hire until the rebound is well underway.

MS. ECONOMIC CRISIS SEES YOUR BET...

Other people's money

DAVID DESCÔTEAUX

Funny dream last night ...

Consumer and Government play like beginners, wasting chips like there's no tomorrow.

After a failed bluff, Consumer loses all his chips. He's already borrowed from Banker three times to keep playing, and remortgaged his house. "That's enough!" He gets up and leaves.

I look at Taxpayer. He plays carefully, but loses chips at every turn — because Government plays aggressively. And because Pressure Group, seated beside him, dips into Government's chips and pesters him constantly, driving up the bidding. Taxpayer just can't keep up.

Meanwhile, Ms. Economic Crisis scoops up other players' squandered chips …

The most hated player is Banker. He bets big each turn, whatever his cards. He doesn't care. He knows that his friend Government will bail him out if he loses everything.

The next turn, he makes a risky bet … and is wiped out. Bah! He gets up, winks at Government, and heads off.

"The most hated player is Banker. He bets big each turn, whatever his cards. He doesn't care. He knows that his friend Government will bail him out if he loses everything."

Suddenly, a cry interrupts the game. "Hands off my chips, parasite!" Government just realized that Pressure Group is repeatedly dipping into his pile. Government places his remaining chips in full view and swears that he will play with more "austerity" from now on.

Pressure Group does not take this decision kindly. Furiously he exits to protest in the streets. He raises a placard that reads: "I deserve more chips!"

Assailed from all sides, Taxpayer finally crumbles, a two of spades and a seven of clubs in his hand. He leaves the table grumbling about Government and Pressure Group: "You're conspiring against me!"

Two players remain seated: Government and Ms. Economic Crisis.

Ms. Economic Crisis has a lot more chips than Government.

Government, in a desperate gamble, goes all in. He pushes all of his chips to the centre of the table. And prays.

Ms. Economic Crisis holds a full house in her hand.

The government — a pair of fives.

Will Ms. Economic Crisis fold?

At that moment, I wake up. I wonder who won …

5 MINUTES WITH: AIDAN ORANGE

Street performing sensation Aidan Orange has busked his way to Singapore, TV screens and beyond, but now he's back home to bring his jaw-dropping act to next week's Scotiabank BuskerFest.

Let's get this straight. You juggle while pulling yourself through a tennis racket and balancing a running lawnmower on your chin. How do you even come up with something like that?
All of those particular things I learned after becoming a professional entertainer. I started out as a juggler, and I found that my tricks weren't really that exciting or unique so I started doing more and more bizarre things just to have that unique element.

How long does a stunt like that take to perfect?
It all depends. Specific things are harder than others. For example, I do a trick now where I balance a large object on my chin while I juggle three flaming torches. That trick took me at least three years. Generally, buskers will do a finale that's really difficult because that way they have put in the time to learn something so you have a great, spectacular, unique finale trick like that.

There's got to be a lot of danger involved. Any accidents of note?
The worst accident I had was a few years ago when I was doing a trick that I no longer do. I would fit my body through a squash racket, but I would do it while I was balanced on a Rolla Bolla, which was also balanced on top of a small stage and at the end of that trick, I'd have to do a one-foot balance to get my feet out of the racket. I fell off, and I was pretty shaken up about it.

Were you the kind of kid whose mom had to take Valium, or was she cool with your hobbies?
When I was a kid I didn't really do anything too crazy. I started juggling when I was 18 and that was also the year I learned how to eat and breathe fire, so that was the first really dangerous thing that I did. I don't think my mom was too super happy about it at the time, but I guess I was old enough at that point that it wasn't completely reckless.

Chivalry vs. girl power

Letters & Tweets

We asked: Buying your own engagement ring: Girl power or desperate act?

TORONTO. For myself, I would have to say girl power cause I'm going out tonight to buy my engagement ring.

My boyfriend has given me the money for it and all and, as he put it, he wants to make sure that it's the ring that I want as he knows that I'll be the one wearing it, not him.
TINA SPRAGG

EDMONTON. @DT_princess a girl buying her own engagement ring? Desparate. Where's the chivalry? Romance? Bah. =)

We asked: What reality show would you like to go on?

TORONTO. The reality TV show I would like to go on is The Bachelorette, The Bachelor, Big Brother, Amazing Race and Beauty and the Geek if it still airs.

The reason is that I like to go on TV for the first time, get some exposure, and find the right girl to be my future wife on the Bachelorette or the Bachelor.

Also to see the world on the Amazing Race and to attract a beautiful model-like girl that can help me be a sociable guy and I can help her intellectually.

Metro Minute at Movies in the Park

What could be better than watching a movie outdoors on a beautiful summer's night?

How about watching a movie outdoors on a beautiful summer's night for a great cause.

Movies in the Park is a charitable event that takes place on the last Sunday of each month. Movies are projected onto large screens at Riverdale Park East, where families and film lovers can sit back and enjoy the open air spectacle starting at sundown.

This Sunday's screening is the Marilyn Monroe classic Some Like It Hot. Proceeds go toward helping the Kiwanis Boys and Girls Club.

Next weekend Going The Distance — yet another star-studded romantic comedy — will be hitting screens headlined by Drew Barrymore and Justin Long.

However, the movie might catch some people off guard as it's a far more realistic representation of a relationship than audiences are used to from the genre.

"A lot of romantic comedies are fairy tales which are fun to watch, but I really wanted to make a film that was more grounded," director Nanette Burstein told Metro.

She's an interesting choice to infuse the rom-com with realism as well, given that Burstein's previous experience has been in documentaries including the Oscar-nominated On The Ropes and American Teen.

"Ever since film school I've wanted to make non-fiction and fiction movies," revealed the director. "I've been reading a lot of different scripts from the studios to direct and I really responded to this. I loved the tone, the honesty, the humour."

Going The Distance is about a seemingly ideal couple who live on opposite sides of America. Obviously that leads to misunderstandings and a variety of zany shenanigans involving phone sex and mistaken infidelity. But there's also a lot of anger, frustration, and emotion that grounds the film with some surprisingly harsh realities.

For Burstein, making the film as realistic as possible was of vital importance and it even led to shooting scenes with her two stars in New York unannounced and without a crew as if it were a documentary.

"We were so stealth and had such small cameras that people didn't even realize that Drew and Justin were there. Most people just walked by, which was exciting for the actors."

Burstein in her own words

On choosing real-Life couple Drew Barrymore and Justin Long
"I deliberately chose a real couple because they had such a wonderful natural chemistry together and also because the movie has lot of comedy in it involving things like phone sex and sex on a dining room table. So it was great to have two actors who felt so comfortable with each other. That way they could just really go for it with the comedy."

On Justin Long's curious work habits
"Justin couldn't stop getting naked on set with Drew. He seemed to love it."

How documentaries prepared her for fiction
"There was actually a lot that I could draw upon, primarily from being able to draw a story out of life. As a fiction director, especially when you're helping develop the script or rewriting it on set, I think your sense of story is really important. Also knowing how to make people very comfortable on camera. Helping real people feel comfortable on camera isn't that different from helping actors feel very natural on camera."

Not much to turn on

The Switch
Genre: Comedy
Directors: Josh Gordon, Will Speck
Stars: Jennifer Aniston, Jason Bateman
●●½
Well, two months have gone by so it's time for another Jennifer Aniston date movie! As you'd expect from anything starring the haircut from Friends, it's pretty bland and inoffensive (despite what Bill O'Reilly says). The movie does have three solid comedic actors to carry the laughs, but there's nothing that will appeal to anyone outside of the date movie crowd.

Jen wants to have a baby, so she goes for artificial insemination. Jason Bateman plays her best friend and secret lover who switches in his semen after some booze. Years goes by and she returns with a kid who acts an awfully lot like the main character from Arrested Development. Think they'll get together? Hmmm…

The movie plays out exactly as you'd expect. The only surprise is that Bateman makes his character work as do Juliette Lewis and Jeff Goldblum in the required best friend roles. It's OK for a cheesy rom-com and maybe even a little better than most. But that's not saying much. If you want a gentle chuckle with a happy ending and no risks, then The Switch is for you. PHIL BROWN

Lottery Ticket
Genre: Comedy
Director: Erik White
Stars: Ice Cube, Bow Wow
●●
You have to hand it to Lottery Ticket — the film at least has a fairly decent premise. Even if it is slightly familiar.

Kevin (rapper turned actor Bow Wow) is an honest kid just trying to get by in a bad neighbourhood filled with thieving gangbangers and stuck-up girls. But when Kevin suddenly wins millions in the Friday lottery, he must survive the weekend to cash in the lucky ticket.

Enter the rest of the cookie-cutter caricatures including a shoe-obsessed bully, a charlatan preacher and the dubious neighbourhood kingpin. In fact, the only real people Kevin can seemingly trust are his protective best friend (Brandon T. Jackson), a platonic gal pal and a reclusive ex-fighter (Ice Cube) who hasn't left his basement apartment in 20 years for reasons unknown. While Ice Cube gives a fairly engaging performance, most of the characters in Lottery Ticket are excessively over-the-top or just plain unnecessary.

Nanny McPhee Returns
Genre: Family
Director: Susanna White
Stars: Emma Thompson
●●●½
Emma Thompson returns to her favourite snaggle-toothed character once again in Nanny McPhee Returns — a sequel of sorts to the Oscar-winning star's 2005 hit feature.

Originally based on a series of children's books, Thompson (who also wrote the script) crafts an original story based on author Christianna Brand's popular character. In this version, the frightfully unibrowed nanny with magical powers helps a family trying to keep their struggling farm out of deadbeat Uncle Phil's (Rhys Ifans, excellent as usual) prying hands while the head of the household is off fighting for his country during World War II.

While some may argue period films are typically unappetizing to younger audiences, Thompson draws a clever script that balances a great amount of wit, fantasy and tenderness quarterbacked by the Mary Poppins-like caregiver.
STEVE GOW

Lebanon
Genre: Drama
Director: Samuel Moaz
Stars: Yoav Donat, Michael Moshonov
●●½
This 2009 Venice Film Festival prize winner is set during the1982 Israel-Lebanon conflict. The gimmick: the action takes place entirely within an Israeli military tank, with the outside world filtered video-game-style through the gunner's scope. It's tense and claustrophobic, but not particularly dramatic — and once you get that the tank is a rolling metaphor for the hell of war, it's also pretty redundant.
ADAM NAYMAN

Survival of The Dead
Genre: Horror
Director: George A. Romero
Stars: Alan Van Sprang
●●●●
Judging Survival of The Dead — horror filmmaker George A. Romero's sixth entry in his unending zombie movie cycle —exclusively as a horror film isn't appropriate. Because like all of Romero's fascinating pictures, Survival doesn't play by conventional rules, nor does it safely adhere itself to a single genre. This time Romero — an ardent film buff — mines the 1958 William Wyler western The Big Country to set up more socio-political metaphors set against the outbreak of another flesh eating zombie plague, with various humans debating whether to "kill" the dead, or domesticate them. Hampered somewhat by its low budget, this Toronto shot gorefest is funny, disgusting, intelligent and ultimately the signature work of an icon who refuses to conform.
CHRIS ALEXANDER

The Infidel
Genre: Comedy
Director: Josh Appignanesi
Stars: Omid Djalili
●
A middle-aged Pakistani Muslim Londoner (Djalili) discovers he is Jewish, adopted at birth by a Muslim family. Mahmud Nasir is actually Solly Shimshillewitz and just like that his world is turned upside down. It could be an opportunity for timely, witty reflection and discovery but The Infidel, a comedy, offers 105 minutes of smirking, odious jokes and stereotypical observations. Nasir repeatedly gestures a big nose when he says the word Jew and dresses up like a concentration camp inmate for laughs. His neighbour (Schiff) offers to "Jew" him up with lessons on food, dance, drink and culture. Cue the cringing. The Infidel is embarrassing, deeply offensive and out of place in 2010.

Salute to The Exorcist

New Eli Roth film explores demonic possession 'What we've done here is make a great movie...'

CHRIS ALEXANDER
FOR METRO CANADA

Though he's known primarily as the gorehound enfant terrible behind the controversial Hostel films, filmmaker Eli Roth is not an easy artist to pigeonhole.

Outside of writing and directing both the grisly Hostel — and its even more gruesome sequel — Roth has worked as an actor for his friend and collaborator Quentin Tarantino in both Death Proof and Inglourious Basterds, and now, Roth steps back to quietly pull the producers strings in director Daniel Stamms hotly anticipated thriller The Last Exorcism.

"I always wanted to make a movie about demonic possession and exorcism," says Roth, in Toronto recently to promote the film.

"But how do you top The Exorcist? That was the question and the answer is, you cant. But what you can do and what we've done here is make a great movie that acknowledges The Exorcist without imitating it."

Shot in first person style, the film stars veteran character actor Patrick Fabian (Big Love) as shyster preacher Cotton Marcus, who is trying to redeem himself by proving that demonic possession is a sham.

Linking up with a TV documentary crew, Marcus travels to the backwoods of nowhere to exorcise a young farm girl (Ashley Bell). He gets more than he bargained for.

"The beauty of shooting in first person, fake documentary format is that you can strip away the make-up effects," the producer admits.

"It's effective and further blurs the line between the natural and the supernatural. There's a compelling clash between science and religion at play here and the audience is left guessing if the girl is possessed or is just mentally ill."

The Last Exorcism opens wide next Friday.

▶ John Mahoney stars with Madeline Carroll in Flipped.

Frasier star connects with '60s in Flipped

John Mahoney played Kelsey Grammer's dad in hit series Actor prefers intuition to character research

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

Best known for his role as ornery Martin Crane on the long-running Frasier, John Mahoney has been a staple of film, TV and theatre — he got his start at Chicago's Steppenwolf Theatre — for decades.

And though he celebrated his 70th birthday in June, Mahoney is still at it, with roles on Burn Notice and In Treatment and as wisdom-dispensing grandfather Chet Duncan in Rob Reiner's new coming-of-age film, Flipped. Mahoney sat down with Metro to talk about how an actor prepares, balancing stage and screen work and the appeal of the early '60s.

How did you go about developing your character for Flipped?

I looked for what his flaws would've been, and I tried to layer in there that he liked to give a little advice — and we all do, no matter what generation it is. You know, 'When I was a kid, when I was this, when I was that. We never did that,' or 'We knew how to behave.' But I just tried to make him as human as I could by layering in real or imagined self-aggrandizing more than anything else.

"I'm at a point now — I'm 70 — and for let's say the last five and half years or so, since Frasier ended and I've had a lot of free time, I just basically look for things of quality."
JOHN MAHONEY

But that was about it. I couldn't put in any deep, dark secret past in there because I just don't think there was one. I didn't want to manufacture anything.

How much work do you do figuring out a character's backstory?

You know, all actors work in different ways, and a lot of people do a lot of research. I don't, to tell you the truth. I read the script and I memorize the lines, and then I think a little bit about the character. But I like to act intuitively. I like to just see what happens. I like to see how a line is said to me before I determine how I'm going to reply to that line. So it's always new to me, whether it's stage or screen or television.

The book Flipped is based on isn't set in the 1960s, but the movie version is. Why do you think there's been so much fascination with that time period lately?

I don't know what it is. I think in the case of Flipped, the innocence of the period. It was just before so many cataclysmic things were happening — assassinations and invasions — I just think [director] Rob [Reiner] was looking for a beautiful time that he could explore innocence and decency before the world went crazy and before we became so technologically obsessed and everything else. I mean, it was such an innocent age when you look back on it.

Life During Wartime has no shades of Happiness

At a time when independent filmmakers struggle to make bank, director Todd Solondz is taking his latest film in a new direction

PHIL BROWN
@METRONEWS.CA

Ever since 1995's Welcome To The Dollhouse, writer/director Todd Solondz has been one of America's most intriguing comedic filmmakers.

He's a true provocateur, mining cruelty, angst, and neurosis for poignant laughs. In his most infamous movie Happiness, Solondz explored pedophilia, rape, murder, dirty phone calls, and the pained eyes of Jon Lovitz. Inevitably, the filmmaker has generated controversy over the years with many questioning if his work should even be described as comedy.

"I think I make sad comedies," the director told Metro. "Some are sadder than others but if a subject beckons, a movie finds it's own tone and life. As long as you're true to the reality that you set up, I don't think there's any problem in exploring these themes through comedy."

Solondz's latest film Life During Wartime brings back characters from Happiness and Welcome To The Dollhouse for an unexpected sequel. "When I finished Happiness I never imagined that I would ever revisit these characters, but it just shows that my imagination wasn't fertile enough," joked the director. "It's different as well. Certainly this is a more politically overt film. I think the movie has it's own of life and if you're looking for a replication of the experience of watching Happiness, you'll be disappointed. It's a more sorrowful comedy."

The new film is definitely different, if only because Solondz has recast each character with a new actor. Sometimes they resemble the previous actor and other times they don't to conceal the character's true identity until a key moment. It's a bold experiment that works surprisingly well. When Solondz began his career, it was during the peak of American independent film when there was support for subversive work. Sadly, the director now constantly struggles and teaches most of the time. "It's a grim time in terms of the economics of filmmaking," said Solondz. "My latest movie Dark Horse doesn't have any rape, masturbation, abortion or child molestation, but was still incredibly difficult to finance because it wasn't designed for a studio. I'm fortunate to get a budget at all these days."

MOVIE NANNIES: MARY POPPINS THEY ARE NOT

Few and far between are the lot to be 'perfect in every way'

The most famous movie nanny is, naturally, Mary Poppins. Julie Andrews brought the "practically perfect in every way" caregiver to vivid life in the 1964 movie, indelibly imprinting on minds young and old the image of the gracious English nanny with special powers.

Good old Mary with her magic satchel and odd ability to say the word "supercalifragilisticexpialidocious" backwards and forwards, is a pop culture icon, parodied on everything from Buffy the Vampire Slayer to Saturday Night Live.

She's even inspired other movies, like this weekend's Nanny McPhee Returns. McPhee (Emma Thompson) fits the enchanted babysitter mold, using her miraculous powers to teach pigs to do synchronized swimming and impose her will on her young charges.

She means well even if her teeth are a bit scary and her methods unorthodox unlike some of the nightmare nannies listed below.

Crazysitters: Redubbed "Fetal Attraction" by one writer, the best known crazysitter movie is The Hand That Rocks the Cradle, a lurid story about a beautiful nanny with bad intentions. After that film Rebecca De Mornay became the poster girl for nutty nannies everywhere, but she is just one of many who have played crazy caregivers. In Addams Family Values nanny Joan Cusack is more interested in Uncle Fester's money than the welfare of the kids and I think the name of the Beverly D'Angelo movie Crazysitter speaks for itself.

"I am here to protect thee": Like Mary Poppins and Nanny McPhee, who both mysteriously appeared when their families needed them most, The Omen's Mrs. Blaylock turned up at Damien Thorn's house just in time to replace the former nanny who met an untimely demise at the end of a rope. Like her colleagues this mother's little helper had the child's best interest in mind. Unlike Poppins and McPhee, she was a disciple of the Devil sworn to protect Damien until he can take over the world.

Rock 'Em Sock 'Em Nannies: Heading the list of muscle-head nannies is wrestler Hulk Hogan who donned a pink tutu to play the lead in Mr. Nanny, a 1993 comedy co-starring Sherman Hemsley and former New York Dolls singer David Johansen.

A close second is Vin Diesel, the big bad bald guy best known as car thief Dominic in the Fast and Furious movies.

In The Pacifier he's an ex-Navy Seal on his toughest mission yet—looking after a gaggle of five kids.

Spike Lee returns

New movie returns to city five years after Katrina to see how plans to rebuild have played out

Five years after he documented the horrors of Hurricane Katrina, Spike Lee returned to New Orleans with his new movie showing the city's agonizing efforts to return to normal.

The premiere this week included hours one and four of the HBO documentary, If God Willing and Da Creek Don't Rise.

"The first hour was very, very emotional," said Sharon Starks, 53, who said she had a purse full of tissues after seeing the first Lee film on the hurricane. "But the second hour I was just angry. It was about the BP oil spill and I just felt they came along and violated us on top of everything else."

Lee also produced When the Levees Broke: A Requiem in Four Acts, after Katrina struck in August 2005. That movie detailed the overwhelming losses and the pain and suffering the hurricane and the breaching of the levees caused.

"I have mixed feelings," said Althea Pierce, 79, who lost everything in the Aug. 29, 2005 storm, but has since rebuilt her house. "It's very painful to relive the storm, but I'm hopeful because of the progress we're making."

In the new movie, Lee returns five years later to see how plans to rebuild New Orleans have played out.

The city has seen many areas rebuilt since the storm. There are still areas of New Orleans that remain deserted, but the population, 450,000 before the hurricane, has grown to 380,000.

It airs on HBO Aug. 23.

Stand Up For Mental Health
Experience a unique comedy program that features sets by comics with mental health issues. Founded by Vancouver counsellor, comic and author David Granirer, SMH is a nationwide workshop that serves to reverse prejudiced representations of mental disability through the work of the comedians. SMH is equal parts a recovery and rehabilitation program. Friday, Workman Arts, 651 Dufferin, 7 p.m., 416-583-4339, $5-$10.

Orlando/Lunaire
Following last year's acclaimed production of Dido & Aeneas, Opera Erratica presents the second production in their Underground/Opera series. This time it's Orlando/Lunaire, a visual smorgasbord that combines Handel's Orlando and Schoenberg's Pierrot Lunaire. The opera will be performed in an industrial-housing space, juxtaposing the sumptuous visuals of the 17th century with gritty, urban modernity. Baroque meets the backstreets in this truly unique event for opera enthusiasts. Aug. 22–28, Industrial Shed: 128 Sterling, 8 p.m., $20-$35, 1-800-838-3006.

Spirit of Diversity & Our Fragile Planet
Pablo Picasso once said "Every act of creation is first an act of destruction." For Toronto sculptor-painter Francisco Castro Lostalo, destruction is replaced by an act of recycling in his latest Spirit of Diversity symposium. Joined by fellow sculptor Janet Candido and a special artist delegation from Costa Rica, Lostalo aims to create original works of art from Italian Carrara marble panels resurrected from the façades of the First Canadian Place building. Mon-Fri, Aug 20-31, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., First Canadian Place outdoor park space,100 King W., Free, 416-988-3530.

Sean Kingston
Sean Kingston — discovered on MySpace by Forest Hill–raised superproducer J.R. Rotem — will be performing his blend of teen pop/faux-reggae in support of the Biebster — discovered on YouTube and introduced by Usher. Since '07's Beautiful Girls, the Miami-bred Kingston has achieved international stardom. If his recent collab with Nicki Minaj is any indication, though, he may soon be ready to abandon teen pop. Air Canada Centre, Saturday, 7 p.m., Sold out. idoldom.

Unsane
Despite being kings of earmelting sludge, New York noise-rockers Unsane always had a sense of humour, from the blackly comic decapitation scene on their self-titled 1991 disc (the victim was wearing a Member's Only jacket) to their hit Scrape video featuring endless shots of skaters going for tricks and beefing it. We love ya, guys, but please, 'ball caps to the front. With Keelhaul, Today Is The Day, more. Sneaky Dee's, Sunday, $16.50, 8 p.m.

Dani Deahl
Following three-plus years of producing monthly "crazy dance parties" as Tight Knit, the resident DJ foursome is calling it quits as a crew. All will continue to DJ, but in the meantime, they'll unravel this project with a big bang — joining them in what will be her Toronto debut is Chicago's Dani Deahl. Goodbye Tight Knit With Duotone (Live). Augusta House, Saturday, $5 before midnight.

Black Swan trailer now online

Movies
It won't be in theatres until later this year, but the trailer for director Darren Aronofsky's new film, Black Swan, is now on YouTube. The film about a ballerina has a little bit of everything; dance, sex, and even demons. This is Aronofsky's follow-up to The Wrestler and it stars That '70s Show's Mila Kunis and Academy Award nominee Natalie Portman.

Telephone, the Office Version

Pop Culture
Lady Gaga's popular song got a nine-to-five makeover with an office-based parody. Instead of Gaga being led to a prison cell, a look-a-like is escorted to a cubicle, where she is forced to work. The lyrics has also received a makeover: "Just a week / vacation and I know where I would be / Party in New Delhi / With our outsourced I.T."

King of Pop stars in new game

An upcoming video game starring Michael Jackson is set to be Bad

Video game publisher Ubisoft announced Wednesday its dancing-and-singing Michael Jackson The Experience game will feature such Jackson hits as Bad, Beat It and Billie Jean.

The title is scheduled to be released later this year for the Xbox 360, PlayStation 3 and Wii, as well as the handheld consoles Nintendo DS and PlayStation Portable.

Other tunes for the game centred on the late King of Pop include Earth Song, The Girl Is Mine, Who Is It and Workin' Day And Night.

Michael Jackson The Experience will be among the first to use Kinect and Move, the new gesture-recognition systems for Xbox 360 and PlayStation 3.

The game's songs were announced at the Gamescom convention in Cologne, Germany.

ROCK BURNOUT'S NEW BOOK BRUTALLY HONEST

Sound Check

N CROSS
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Steven Adler, the original drummer for Guns N' Roses, has a pretty solid handshake for The Most Self-Destructive Guy in Rock. One stroke, two heart attacks, three botched suicide attempts, several trips to jail and twenty-eight overdoses on everything from heroin on down.

He was so messed up that even by the standards of the depravity set by Guns N' Roses in their heyday, he was too much for the rest of the band. He was fired for drinking too much and taking too many drugs. Even Slash, a guy he had known since childhood (and a fellow junkie), refused to stand by him anymore. From there, his life became worse than you can imagine. For 20 years.

So what do you do if you survive all this? You write a book, of course.

"There's been a lot of stuff said and I want to set the record straight," he says, speaking with a slight slur in his voice, perhaps resulting from the stroke, "but for me, it's very mentally and physically and spiritually healing for me. I couldn't continue with my life. I couldn't move on. I couldn't move ahead with my career, my family, if I didn't say these things. I wear my heart on my sleeve with this book."

He does. My Appetite for Destruction is brutally honest. Adler recounts everything from the sexual abuse he suffered as a child through to all the weirdness and sickness that was part of everyday life as a member of GNR. It also covers all kinds of Gunners' history that even some of the most hardcore fans may not know about.

It was only after he finally got sick of "coming to every morning and then doing drugs," he sought the help of Dr. Drew Pinsky (the Celebrity Rehab guy) that he was able to reverse this death spiral.

"You think everything's party. It wasn't such a party. Being sick, having to go on stage throwing up blood, hospitals — that's what happened. I partied harder than any of them and it affected me differently. (Then) for twenty years I was blaming Slash, Axl, Duff and Izzy for letting me down. I let me down."

My Appetite for Destruction: Sex & Drugs & Guns N' Roses is out now.

Adkins has a new ride

Country singer signs with Toby Keith's label releases energetic new album Cowboy's Back In Town

Trace Adkins was pondering a move to good friend Toby Keith's record label when Adkins heard the words every singer wants to hear.

Adkins offered to would fly to Keith's house in Oklahoma to play him what was to become Cowboy's Back In Town, when Keith told him, "I don't need to hear what you do."

"Right there he basically said, 'I know who you are. I know what you do. You don't need to change anything for me,"' Adkins recalled.

Adkins signed on as Show Dog-Universal Music's first new recruit and eight months later, the big man's latest album is the label's first major release. Cowboy's Back in Town, released this week, is a mostly lighthearted romp that includes just one ballad. The man with one of country's most distinctive voices said he was aiming for the same kind of energy generated by his live show.

"He's one of the coolest, biggest ... guys in entertainment. He just has this huge presence."
BLACK SHELTON

In a way, the album represents Adkins' response to the new digital era when record sales are more a means to an end than the ultimate goal. Few artists can expect to sell millions of records these days, so Adkins said his goal with the new set was to draw fans to his live shows.

▶ Cowboy's Back In Town is the new album from Trace Adkins

On this, Adkins and Keith are in lockstep. That made it easier for the 48-year-old Adkins to leave the safe haven of Capitol Nashville, the label he had been with since he cut his first album in 1996.

"I think the thing that makes it most comfortable for me is the fact that Toby doesn't look at the record label as a revenue generator," Adkins said. "He looks at the label as a marketing-advertising tool that we need to get our music out there so we can sell tickets to shows, which is completely 180 degrees from the other record label heads in the business."

Show Dog-Universal president Mark Wright says the label has a plan to keep Adkins visible over the next few months during the all-important third and fourth fiscal quarters of the year — "the selling season," as he calls it. Wright believes Adkins has a much more visible profile than most of his country peers, yet doesn't get the credit for it.

"I really believe that he is a bigger star with the fans than even the industry knows," Wright said. "The industry sometimes makes a judgment on somebody based on this, this and this, and they don't realize how big an impact people really have on the fans. And he's real big star with the fans."

Rising star

Adkins' appearance on The Celebrity Apprentice two years ago led to more work with Donald Trump and a higher national profile than he's had before. He wrote a book. He's set to start filming a small part in The Lincoln Lawyer with Matthew McConaughey and he's got a single on the Billboard country chart.

Montag's surgeon killed in car crash

Police suspect texting or tweeting may have been the cause of the accident that killed Dr. Frank Ryan, plastic surgeon to the stars

Heidi's lament

Reality star Heidi Montag took to Twitter to cry glycerin tears over the loss of her plastic surgeon. Earlier this year, she made headlines by undergoing 10 plastic surgeries in the same day.

"I am devastated to hear the news of Dr. Frank Ryan's death. He was the most amazing person I have ever known. He was an angel and changed my life and the lives of everyone he met. He was the most brilliant talented surgeon who will ever exist. Dr. Frank Ryan changed the world."

Police are investigating the accident that killed celebrity plastic surgeon Dr. Frank Ryan, including whether texting or tweeting may have played a role.

"We haven't confirmed anything regarding the cause of the collision," California Highway Patrol officer Steve Reid said Wednesday, adding that detectives are "looking into several factors, including texting and Twittering that may have played a role in the accident."

Ryan's last post on Twitter was at 4:10 p.m. PDT Monday. It included a photo of his dog looking out at the ocean with the caption, "Border collie jill surveying the view from atop the sand dune."

Ryan had posted earlier that he hiked to the top of a sand dune near Pacific Coast Highway in Malibu.

Police say the doctor's 1995 Jeep Wrangler went off the side of Pacific Coast Highway near Malibu and landed on its roof Monday afternoon. The crash was first reported at 4:34 p.m. by a motorist who witnessed the accident, Reid said.

A spokesman for Twitter says the time stamps on tweets reflect the time zone in which the account was created.

The dog was seriously injured in the crash and taken to an animal hospital, police said.

Ryan, 50, made headlines for performing multiple surgeries on reality TV star Heidi Montag late last year. His celebrity clientele also included musician Vince Neil, actor Lorenzo Lamas, reality stars Lisa Gastineau and Adrianne Curry and several other models and beauty queens of note.

Ryan opened his successful private practice in 1994, the same year he established his namesake charitable foundation that provides free removal of gang-related tattoos and hosts day and overnight camps for underprivileged children at Malibu's Bony Pony Ranch.

the Good Wife in your home

Set decorator of hit television series helps viewers buy items in episodes Kushnick shares tips on how she brings sets in under budget

Ever watch a TV show, admire a certain sofa, rug or kitchen appliance and thought, "Hey, that would look right at home in my house!"

If you're watching The Good Wife, show set decorator Beth Kushnick would like to help you track some of those things down.

The Good Wife stars Julianna Margulies as Alicia Florrick, a Chicago defender. She re-enters the work force to provide for her two children after her state's attorney husband Peter (played by Chris Noth) is incarcerated following a very public sex scandal.

The legal drama, partially inspired by the Eliot Spitzer prostitution affair, airs Tuesday nights on Global in Canada. It quickly emerged as a critical and ratings hit and returns for a second season Sept. 28.

The cast and crew are already back at work and so is Kushnick, who often only has a matter of days to design and supervise construction of an entire set. As on most TV dramas, three or four sets are used every week and are thus "standing" sets, including the massive courthouse and Alicia's spacious Chicago apartment.

AP PHOTO/CBS

Julianna Margulies

Kushnick, a native New Yorker, gave a walking tour of the set to a small group of TV reporters earlier this week. The Good Wife is shot at CBS's Broadway Stages production facility, a converted industrial machine shop where the new Tom Selleck cop drama Blue Bloods is also shot.

The courtroom set is based on an actual Bronx courthouse. Some of the walls, like the one behind the judge's bench, can actually be "flown" up to allow cameras to shoot from behind into the courtroom. The walls appear to be covered in rich teak, but the effect is rendered with wallpaper. The downturn in the U.S. economy has hit the TV industry and forced designers like Kushnick to be extra resourceful.

Working on a hit show helps. Suppliers are only too happy to have their wares featured on a network series viewed by millions each week. Kushnick says Alicia also has to be resourceful even though she earns big bucks as a Chicago lawyer.

She's rebuilding her life, and that is reflected in the way her home is furnished and also in the clothes she wears as chosen by Emmy-nominated fashion designer Daniel Lawson. Lawson says that 85 per cent of the clothes worn on The Good Wife are current season.

"You can run right out and buy it," he says.

To that end, many of the goodies in Alicia's home come straight from regular department stores.

"Fans consider this a very aspirational show," says Kushnick. "We wanted to keep Alicia's world very obtainable."

Kushnick, who previously worked on shows like Fringe, Trial By Jury and Conviction, tells all on her CBS.com blog, The Good Look of the Good Wife, answering questions from fans in the U.S., Canada and Australia.

At least if Alicia throws Peter out of her house again, he can always follow Kushnick's tips on how to replace his furniture.

Michael C. Hall joins telethon to fight cancer.

Celebrities stand up to cancer

Lance Armstrong, Robin Roberts and Michael C. Hall are among the celebrities affected by cancer who will take part in a television fundraiser next month.

Stand Up to Cancer announced Thursday appearances by other actors, athletes and musicians who have faced the disease, including Maura Tierney, Christina Applegate and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Elizabeth Edwards, who kicked off the first Stand Up to Cancer telethon in 2008 with Armstrong, is taking part again.

One of the night's musical performances will be led by Stevie Wonder and include Natasha Bedingfield, Queen Latifah, Martina McBride, Aaron Neville and Dave Stewart.

Stand Up to Cancer will air commercial-free Sept. 10 (8 p.m. to 9 p.m. EDT) on the four major broadcast networks (ABC, CBS, Fox and NBC), as well as on a number of cable channels. News anchors Katie Couric, Diane Sawyer and Brian Williams are hosts.

Others set to appear include Reese Witherspoon, Mandy Moore, Apolo Anton Ohno and Jim Parsons.

Film and TV producer Laura Ziskin (of the Spider-Man franchise), a cancer survivor who produced the first telecast, has taken on the job again.

The 2008 event helped deliver more than $100 million for research.

"We're going to cure cancer. It's going to take guts, brains and the ongoing support of the public, but we can do this."
LAURA ZISKIN, FILM/TV PRODUCER

The American Association for Cancer Research, the scientific partner of Stand Up to Cancer, administers grants and provides scientific oversight in partnership with a Stand Up to Cancer advisory committee.

Stand Up to Cancer is a program of the Entertainment Industry Foundation, a non-profit TV and film industry group that supports programs addressing health, education and social issues.

Telethon viewers will be asked to make donations by phone or on the Stand Up to Cancer website. All public donations go to cancer research, the group said.

Besides the broadcast networks, Bio, Discovery Health, E!, G4, HBO, HBO Latino, MLB Network, mun2, Showtime, Smithsonian Channel, The Style Network, TV One and VH1 also will simulcast the event.

Shepherd does double duty on daytime TV

The actress-comedian signs on to host The Newlywed Game, while keeping her View
She'll also continue to play her recurring role on NBC's 30 Rock

Sherri Shepherd is going to be on view even more starting this fall.

Shepherd, co-host of the daytime talk show The View, will join The Newlywed Game as host when it begins its fourth season on the GSN channel in November.

"Who does not love The Newlywed Game?" Shepherd said Wednesday. "I've been a fan since I was young, when my grandma would have soap operas on one TV and Newlywed Game on another."

The GSN show, which was hosted by Carnie Wilson, will tape 65 episodes with Shepherd beginning in September. The season starts Nov. 1, with the show airing 6 p.m. EST Monday through Friday.

Production on The Newlywed Game is moving from Los Angeles to New York, where Shepherd tapes ABC's The View.

She said she doesn't foresee any problem balancing work on the two daily shows and sees The Newlywed Game as providing a welcome change.

"I get to have fun. I'm not going to be arguing with anybody about whether we should pull the troops out of Afghanistan," Shepherd said.

The actress-comedian is also completing work on One for the Money, a film starring Katherine Heigl and based on the Janet Evanovich novel, and will be back on NBC's 30 Rock in the recurring role of feisty Angie Jordan, wife of TV star Tracy Jordan (Tracy Morgan).

"I love to work. If I'm not working, I'm going to get pregnant," joked Shepherd, who has a 5-year-old son.

The Newlywed Game, based on the game show that debuted in the 1960s with host Bob Eubanks, gives three couples the chance to win prizes by showing how much each knows about their new spouse. Shepherd's advice for the contestants?

"I'm gonna tell the women you better make those men feel like they're on top of the world" whether they have the right answers or not, she said. "Otherwise, you're gonna be dealing with a pouting man."

A celebrity edition of the show last season featured its first gay couple when George Takei, who played Mr. Sulu on Star Trek, appeared with his partner, Brad Altman. The couple wed in California in 2008 when same-sex marriage, now back in the courts, was legal.

Diaz tops McAfee's most dangerous list

Popular actress used to lure victims onto virus-laden websites: Report

If you're looking for Cameron Diaz, Julia Roberts or Jessica Biel online, look out!The movie stars top the latest list of the most dangerous celebrities to search for online, according to new research by computer-security software maker McAfee Inc. It's far from an Oscar, but landing atop McAfee's annual list carries a distinction all its own: It means that criminals believe those celebs are the perfect lures to sucker people into visiting malicious websites. Clicking onto strange sites is sketchy to begin with. But many people do, and their computers get infected. Once a computer is infected, criminals can steal victims' online banking passwords, email passwords, and do other kinds of nasty deeds.

Attaching famous people's names to malicious sites is a well-worn ruse, to fool people looking at search results into thinking they're heading to a legitimate site. The other most-dangerous celebrities to look for online, according to McAfee, are Gisele Bundchen, Brad Pitt, Adriana Lima, Jennifer Love Hewitt, Nicole Kidman, Tom Cruise, Heidi Klum, Penelope Cruz and Anna Paquin. McAfee performed its tests this past July using the company's technology for identifying dangerous websites. The rankings measure the likelihood that someone looking for things such as photos, information and videos of those particular celebrities would land on a malicious site. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ACNE Eczema Psoriasis Pimples Rashes

By Dr. C. Hammoud Ph.D.

■ I had terrible Acne for 3 years and tried Benzoyl Peroxide, Proactiv, Aloe Vera and others. After 4 days taking the Bell natural product #60 it started to clear up my skin. My skin changed from terrible to beautiful. Mylene Theriault, 19, Sorel-Tracy, QC ■ In 2 days my son's face completely cleared up of acne. My son is 15 and suffered for 3 years. We used many products like laser, Clean Clear, Neem that did not work or burned his skin. Veronica Marden, Seminole, TX ■ Unbelievable acne free beautiful skin Last couple of years I had acne and tried every product like Murad, Proactiv and antibiotics. Results with #60 were unbelievable. Thanks for giving me beautiful skin and my self-esteem. Nelisa Royer, 28, Doral, FL ■ Within 6 days eczema cleared up completely. I believe #60 addresses the cause internally instead of the symptoms. Latifa Boutshik, 43, North York, ON ■ I had severe psoriasis over 95% of my body. Last 5 years I have stunned every doctor and dermatologist. I spent tons of money on remedies. After I got Bell #60, I've never seen anything work as fast in my life. Within 2 days I saw my skin clearing up. I'm speechless. It was inexpensive compared with what I spent before. Jessica Shantz, 25, Dawson Creek, BC ■ All statements made on the Bell website are sent by delighted users. All are real people. Most have listed phone numbers and can be called for advice. No money is paid to them. Their reward is the relief they are getting. All say #60 works within days not months, not years. It's more effective than what they used before. It is less expensive (some acne suppliers ship monthly and charge monthly, which may amount to large sums yearly). No side effects were reported on #60.

Guaranteed better than all others they used say dozens of delighted users with full names and towns on the Bell website. Works by cleansing blood inside rather than attacking skin from the outside and leaving the actual cause untreated. Here are a few examples:

COLD SORES/VIRUSES

By Dr. C. Hammoud Ph.D.

Guaranteed to bring relief for viral infections or money refunded. For cold sores, colds, flus, bronchial and nasal infections. English scientists concluded that cold sore viruses may play a role in Alzheimer's Disease.

#42

■ Registered nurse wrote at the first sign of a cold or flu like symptoms I take Virux Viral Infections #42. It stops it right away. This product has been a great help. We know allopathic medicine does not have an answer for viruses, but nature does, using God's pharmacy is the way to go. Janna Dodds, 45, Clifford, ON ■ No more cold sores, no more colds. When I felt a cold coming on I started taking #42 and the cold stayed away. Another great bonus , my cold sores stopped completely Carrie Shoonbaert, 32, Deloraine, MB. ■ I got herpes and truly thought my life was over. After taking #42 as a preventive I have been outbreak free for 3 months. James Cassamajor, 25, Brooklyn, NY. ■ Fibromyalgia for 15 years, had relief after 4 weeks with #42. Robin Obemsawin, 50, Oneida, NY. Money-back guarantee.

SNORING? SLEEP APNEA?

#23

Most older men and many women snore and have sleep apnea (gasping for air) :

To my surprise, after taking Bell Sleep & Apnea Relief #23 I really didn't snore or gasp for air anymore. I sleep through the night and feel rested and refreshed in the morning. Mark Wilson, 40, Hudson, NH ■ Sleep apnea capsules worked first night! For last 15 years I had sleep apnea and my doctor made me buy a C-Pap machine, which I could not use. Finally Bell #23 helped the first night and every night thereafter. Like a miracle. Unbelievable. Karen Braun, 67, Glace Bay, NS

■ For 20 years I was waking up frequently gasping for air. During the day I would start napping every time I would sit down, because I was tired. Since taking Bell #23 sleeping 6 hours is heaven. It made a substantial change in my life. Mary C. Myrick, 62, Jackson, MS ■ For 27 years I suffered with sleep apnea and would wake up with a hangover even though I don't drink. After I started to use the CPAP sleep machine 3 years ago my life improved a great deal but not 100%. Only after I used your Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Eze #23 for 2 days sleep got even better. I woke up today refreshed for the first time. Samuel Moses, Markham, ON

Biebs wants to make a deal with Beckham

Pop star willing to put on a private show for the soccer star's kids in exchange for dribbling lessons.

Teen pop sensation Justin Bieber knows how to negotiate. He's learned that David Beckham's three sons are huge fans of his music, so Bieber is looking to use that to his advantage. "I am sure he would do anything to make his three boys happy, and if I am their favorite artist I would happily come and put on a private show at the Beckham household," Bieber tells the Sun newspaper. "All I would ask for in return is that we go into his yard for an hour afterwards and he teaches me all those crazy things he can do with a soccer ball." ● METRO WORLD NEWS

▶ Emeril Legasse's Bam Burger With Chipotle, Tomato and Lime Aioli

BAM! It's Lagasse's flavourful burger

You have to work hard to create a burger that lives up to the catchphrase "Bam!"

And Emeril Lagasse has done just that, offering AP's 20 Burgers of Summer series a seriously over-the-top 250-gram (1/2-pound) burger of prime ground chuck topped with a round of fried fresh mozzarella cheese and drizzled with chipotle, tomato and lime aioli.

"I wanted a balance of texture and flavour in achieving one of the ultimate comfort foods," Lagasse said in an email interview. "I loved the idea of combining a rich fried cheese with prime chuck and the spicy aioli."

Chipotle, Tomato and Lime Aioli

Start to finish: 5 minutes

In a blender, combine all ingredients and purée until smooth. Store in an airtight container and refrigerate for up to five days:

MAKES 125 ML (1/2 CUP).

Fried Mozzarella Rounds

Start to finish: 30 minutes (10 minutes active)

In a wide, shallow bowl, place flour. In a second wide, shallow bowl, whisk together eggs and milk. Place panko in a third wide, shallow bowl.

One at a time, dredge each slice of cheese through flour, shaking off excess, then dip into egg mixture, coating thoroughly. Place slices in panko and coat evenly on both sides. Pass each slice through egg mixture a second time, then again through panko.

Line a sheet pan with parchment paper. Arrange cheese slices on it, then place in the freezer for 20 minutes.

In a medium sauté pan over medium-high, heat oil. Add breaded cheese slices, in batches if necessary, and fry each for about 2½ minutes on the first side, then 1½ minutes on the second side. Move cheese slices to a paper towel-lined plate to drain. MAKES 4 SLICES.

Bam Burger With Chipotle, Tomato and Lime Aioli

In a large bowl, season meat with salt and pepper. Gently form into four 250-g (8-oz) patties, being careful not to overwork meat. Cover patties and refrigerate until chilled, about 1 hour.

Heat a grill to medium. Lightly oil grates.

Grill patties for 8 minutes, then flip them and grill for another 7 to 8 minutes for medium-rare to medium or until burgers are cooked to desired doneness.

Place a burger on the bottom of each of the four toasted buns, place a tomato slice on top of the burger, then a slice of fried mozzarella and 50 ml (1/4 cup) of the arugula. Dress the top bun with 15 ml (1 tbsp) of the aioli and place the bun on top.

MAKES 4 SERVINGS.

Pleasantly transformed

Light at the end of the tunnel seen in Halifax park years after Hurricane Juan pummelled coast

▶ Point Pleasant Park is located about 2.5 km from downtown Halifax.

Jutting out into Halifax Harbour on the southern tip of the city's peninsula, Point Pleasant Park remains a beloved destination for locals and visitors alike, even as it undergoes a slow and radical transformation.

On most days, the park is full of life as walkers, runners and cyclists take to the park's 40 kilometres of complex trails, accompanied by dogs, strollers and errant squirrels.

The foot traffic is not much different from any given day in the past five, 10, 20 years or more. But the surroundings changed drastically overnight seven years ago.

The park was decimated in September 2003 when hurricane Juan roared up the Atlantic Ocean and landed a Category-2 punch directly on the mouth of the harbour.

By the time the storm moved on from Halifax, its winds had levelled 75 per cent of Point Pleasant's trees. And although the hard evidence of Juan's destruction — felled trees and stray branches — were soon removed, the damage remains visible.

Cambridge Drive, a wide road that extends from the Tower Road parking lot southward toward the water, was once heavily shaded, even in the midday sun. Today, shadows are scarce and become scarcer as visitors walk toward the water's edge.

But the visitors remain undeterred.

Wally MacNeil walks through the park nearly every day, and has for years. MacNeil says he likes the park because it allows him to tackle a few inclines and get some exercise, and thinks it's even nicer in some ways than before the hurricane.

He says the park is "a lot more open now; you can see more.

"It was really closed in before … it's nice to see the scenery," he said while taking a quick breather on a bench by the Prince of Wales tower.

Still, there are some dissenting voices.

Frank Stolarz from nearby Head of St. Margaret's Bay hadn't visited the park for five years before this August, and called his latest trip "disappointing."

"Toward the south end of the park sits The Prince of Wales tower, a dominant feature since its completion in 1798. In addition to being open to the public, the tower also plays host to Shakespeare by the Sea, a perennial favourite in Halifax."

"It's nice to see the growth coming up," he said, "but I thought there was a plan to actually develop some of the park."

Stolarz was thinking of the Point Pleasant Park Comprehensive Plan, which the Halifax Regional Municipality endorsed in 2008, partly as a response to the hurricane. The plan will significantly change all facets of park life, from lighting and signage to flora and fauna, over the course of years and decades to come.

"Amidst the trees, Point Pleasant's labyrinthine trails lead to many hidden remnants of its military history. The park's limits contain no fewer than four retired artillery batteries, some of which are overrun with plant life and seem to blend into the natural landscape."

John Simmons, the urban forester for the municipality, explained that the plan's aim is not simply to restore the park to its pre-hurricane condition.

"(Point Pleasant) was an even-growth stand, and an even-growth stand … (is) just asking for a potential risk of massive failure," he said.

One hundred thousand seedlings have already been planted to achieve the plan's goals, but not all will flourish. Foresters will selectively cut some trees to reach the target of a more natural balance of conifer and broadleaf trees. Before the hurricane, the conifer-to-broadleaf ratio was approximately four-to-one.

Amidst the trees, Point Pleasant's labyrinthine trails lead to many hidden remnants of its military history. The park's limits contain no fewer than four retired artillery batteries, some of which are overrun with plant life and seem to blend into the natural landscape.

History also plays a major role elsewhere in the park. Along the waterfront there are three memorials to sailors, including one for those lost on the SS Point Pleasant Park, which was sunk off South Africa in the Second World War.

Toward the south end of the park sits The Prince of Wales tower, a dominant feature since its completion in 1798. In addition to being open to the public, the tower also plays host to Shakespeare by the Sea, a perennial favourite in Halifax.

The company puts on three productions — two by the Bard and one family show — in the park each summer.

This year, the troupe stages Twelfth Night, in which Olivia boasts that her beauty "will endure wind and weather" — a fitting line for such a venue.

If You Go...

Point Pleasant Park is located at 5718 Point Pleasant Dr. on the southern tip of Halifax Peninsula. The park is about 2.5 kilometres from downtown Halifax and is open year-round to visitors.

NHL camp wraps up with intrigue

BRUCE BENNETT/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Brendan Shanahan

Brendan Shanahan's goal with the NHL's research, development and orientation camp was to take a proactive approach to considering potential changes that could improve the game.

The league tested several modifications to its rules — some slight tinkering and some out of left field — during the two-day camp which wrapped up Thursday. The exercise gave league officials, team executives and players a chance to see various ideas in action during live scrimmages. Shanahan, the NHL's vice-president of hockey and business affairs, thinks it was an important first step.

"I don't really feel like there's a finish line with this project," Shanahan said. "I think it's just a matter of collecting information that could come in handy tomorrow, or it could come in handy five or 10 years from now."

Long process

- Fans shouldn't expect to see changes to the game any time soon.
- The next scheduled GMs meeting is in November and the competition committee and board of governors would need to approve any potential proposals.

On Thursday, no-touch icing was in effect, teams switched ends for overtime (creating a so-called 'long change' with the bench being farther away) and there was a five-man shootout instead of the usual three.

One change that generated some buzz was the use of an off-ice referee positioned on an elevated platform beside the boards. The goal was to create more room on the ice and provide a better vantage point to spot infractions.

Clemens charged with perjury

Latest in steroid saga sees former Blue Jay indicted by grand jury

SUSAN WALSH/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ This Feb. 13, 2008 photo shows former pitcher Roger Clemens being sworn-in on Capitol Hill in Washington, prior to testifying before the House Oversight and Government Reform committee hearing on drug use in baseball.

Seven-time Cy Young Award winner Roger Clemens was indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday for allegedly lying to Congress about using steroids and growth hormone.

The criminal case writes a new chapter in one of Major League Baseball's worst scandals, the rampant use of the banned substances.

A six-count indictment alleges that Clemens obstructed a congressional inquiry with 15 different statements that he made under oath in 2008, including denials that he had ever used steroids or human growth hormone. The indictment says that he lied and committed perjury regarding the same matters.

The former pitcher and his former trainer, Brian McNamee, testified under oath at a 2008 hearing before a House committee and contradicted each other about whether Clemens had used performance-enhancing drugs.

McNamee has told federal agents, baseball investigator George Mitchell and the committee that he injected Clemens more than a dozen times with steroids and human growth hormone from 1998 to 2001.

Clemens has maintained that McNamee was lying, and said so under oath before the committee.

Good day on the links for Weir

HUNTER MARTIN/GETTY IMAGES

Mike Weir finally had some reason to smile at the golf course.

The struggling Bright's Grove, Ont., native opened the Wyndham Championship with a 3-under 67 on Thursday morning.

Saskatchewan's Graham DeLaet later matched that.

Weir is having one of the worst seasons of his PGA Tour career. He has just one top-10 finish in 18 starts and sits 125th on the money list with a little less than $560,000 US in earnings.

The story keeps changing, but one thing remains the same about the Washington Redskins defensive tackle: He still isn't practising.

Smallest crowd yet for Buffalo

- 39,583 see Bills defeat Colts in exhibition contest at Rogers Centre
- Rookie C.J. Spiller helps cover for injured Buffalo running backs

FRANK GUNN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Gary Brackett closes in to tackle Buffalo Bills quarterback Trent Edwards.

C.J. Spiller eased the Buffalo Bills' concerns about their run game Thursday night.

The rookie rushed for 54 yards and a TD in his first NFL start as Buffalo earned a 34-21 exhibition win over the Indianapolis Colts before just 39,583 spectators at Rogers Centre.

Spiller, selected ninth overall in this year's NFL draft, quickly calmed the Bills' fears with veterans Fred Jackson (hand) and Marshawn Lynch (ankle) both expected to miss the remainder of the pre-season.

The former Clemson star opened the scoring with a sparkling 31-yard run at 2:40 of the first quarter.

| COLTS | BILLS |
|---|---|
| 21 | 34 |

"I just read my keys and the offensive line did a great job of holding them," Spiller said.

"I just cut back, made a guy miss and it felt good to get in there."

Buffalo improved to 1-1 while Indianapolis fell to 0-2.

The game was the fourth of eight Buffalo will play in Toronto through 2012, with the club hosting Chicago in a regular-season contest in November. The victory was the Bills' second at their home away from home, the other being an exhibition victory over Pittsburgh in 2008.

But once again the story was the attendance.

Not even the presence of such stars as Colts quarterback Peyton Manning and receiver Reggie Wayne could deflect attention from the many patches of empty seats. The attendance was the lowest of the four games played here thus far and well short of Rogers Centre's 54,000-seat capacity for football.

That's yet another disappointment to the Toronto-based group that secured the games — dubbed Bills Toronto Series — hoping to showcase the city as a viable home for a full-time NFL franchise. The expectation when the series was unveiled was southern Ontario football fans would flock to Rogers Centre to watch Buffalo, regardless of the price.

But that's not been the case as the combination of high ticket prices and bad Bills teams have combined to make this series a tough sell.

Suspension upheld for Cushing

Houston Texans linebacker Brian Cushing had his four-game suspension for taking a performance-enhancing drug upheld by the NFL on Thursday, which means he won't be eligible to play until October.

The reigning Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year was suspended in May for testing positive for HCG, a fertility drug that is on the NFL's banned substances list. Cushing claims that he has a unique medical condition that triggered the positive test.

"At the request of Texans owner Bob McNair, commissioner (Roger) Goodell reviewed additional medical information presented on behalf of Brian Cushing," the NFL said in a statement.

"The club and Cushing were notified today that after carefully considering all the information, including a review by outside medical experts, the commissioner finds no basis for changing the decision that Mr. Cushing's suspension for the first four games of the regular season remains in place."

[illegible] close wins as special teams coach

One of the most grizzled and intense linebackers in CFL history has signed up for a non-contact ultimate Frisbee league in retirement, and even though the games are not officiated, Mike O'Shea has tried to be on his best behaviour.

His children are watching, after all.

"It's all like a feel-good, karma-based sort of thing," O'Shea said with a smile on Thursday. "I'm trying to make the adjustment, to allow me some outlet of physical fitness where I can calm down and learn to just have fun playing without worrying about beating myself up over missed plays."

He is allowed to beat himself up in his other pursuit, as special teams coach of the Toronto Argonauts, but his players have not missed many plays. The team is tied for first place in the East Division heading into Friday night's game against the Hamilton Tiger-Cats (7:30 p.m. ET, TSN), and the resurgence is due in no small part to the play of the special teams.

Chad Owens has emerged as one of the league's most dangerous returners, and a combination of veteran savvy and alert coaching has helped Toronto to a series of close wins.

"I know I've got a bunch of guys who are taking instruction very well and applying it on the field"
MIKE O'SHEA

The Argos are 5-2, but four of those wins have been decided by four or fewer points.

"You can tell what kind of a player he was, just from the way he coaches," Owens said of O'Shea, "and how much passion he has for the game."

Owens has compiled the second-most punt return yards (318) in the league this year, and is also second with 470 kickoff return yards.

"I have a group of guys who rely on me to be able to take in the information, make an adjustment and figure it out," O'Shea said. "They want to see a leader who's got his stuff together, right? If you're losing it and freaking out all the time, it's going to transfer to their mindset and their play."

Henry adjusting to new life in MLS

- Notoriety the main difference for French star in new league
- Henry's Red Bulls set to take on Toronto in Saturday affair

Paid in full

Thierry Henry and Rafael Marquez trail only David Beckham on Major League Soccer's salary list.

- Henry, a World Cup and European champion with France and a Champions League winner with Barca, will earn $5.6 million US in guaranteed compensation this year, according to the latest MLS Players Union salary list.
- Marquez, who captained Mexico in South Africa, will earn $5.54 million.
- Beckham, who hasn't played for the Los Angeles Galaxy this season because of a torn Achilles' tendon, tops the league at $6.5 million.

Thierry Henry's boots have graced the grass of some of the world's most storied soccer pitches.

The French star striker — and recent acquisition of the New York Red Bulls — admits he was warned when he joined Major League Soccer not to expect very much.

"People were telling me: be careful, don't expect this, don't expect that (from MLS)," Henry said in a conference call Thursday, ahead of the Red Bulls' game Saturday in Toronto (CBC, 1 p.m. ET).

"And you know what, I'm more than happy to see what I've seen. I said early on, the fans away from home are amazing, our stadium is amazing, our fans are amazing ... they're nice, nice stadiums, nice fields. I'm more than happy with that."

"People have been trying to ask me all the time to compare leagues, the competition here is tough, the league is good, you guys in Toronto have some good players." THIERRY HENRY

Still, there are some obvious differences from playing in Europe for the 33-year-old, who spent time with Juventus and Barcelona, and played the majority of his career with English Premier League powerhouse Arsenal.

There's his notoriety, for one. A morning show host in New York recently butchered Henry's name when he was a guest on the show. Then, according to the New Jersey Star-Ledger, asked: "So you've just joined the New York Red Bulls, correct? That's our soccer team here?"

Despite the fact he's second only to David Beckham in star power in the MLS — and his presence alongside Tiger Woods and Roger Federer in Gillette's popular razor campaign — he clearly hasn't attained household-name status everywhere. He doesn't mind, saying he enjoys the fact he can roam freely in New York without being hounded by hoards of camera-wielding soccer fans. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Taking a 'vodka' break can help

Kuznetsova in joking mood after break from action helps her rally for win ◗ Russian advances to quarters

After being thrashed 6-1 in the second set against Agnieszka Radwanska, two-time grand slam winner Svetlana Kuznetsova needed a break.

And when the 25-year-old Russian returned from the players' dressing room, she turned the match around for a 6-4, 1-6, 6-3 victory on Thursday that put her into the quarter-finals of the $2 million US Rogers Cup at Uniprix Stadium.

What did she do during the brief break?

"I take a vodka shot, no?" Kuznetsova said with a laugh. "No, nothing like that.

"I just go to the locker-room, change all my clothes, eat a banana, and I go back. It's very simple. It was 6-1, but almost every game was deuce, so it was pretty hard. I took a break and it worked."

The win put 11th-seeded Kuznetsova into a quarter-final on Friday against Zheng Jie of China, who upset fourth-seeded Elena Dementieva 7-6 (3), 6-4.

Fifth-seeded Kim Clijsters advanced with a 6-2, 6-1 win over Kaia Kanepi of Estonia and will next face Vera Zvonareva, the eighth seed from Russia who downed Agnes Szavay of Hungary 6-3, 6-3.

Mancini puts Man City squad into action

Roberto Mancini has finally assembled the squad he wants at Manchester City and will put it into Premier League action for the first time against Liverpool on Monday.

Former Inter Milan coach Mancini guided City to fifth place last season with the squad he inherited but says the signings of James Milner and Mario Balotelli over the past week will be his last in the summer transfer window.

With Chelsea at Wigan and Manchester United at Fulham (Setanta Sports Canada, 11 a.m. ET) after winning starts, City could give a league debut to both Milner and Balotelli against visiting Liverpool (TSN, 3 p.m. ET). With four more high-profile new signings in his squad, Mancini will have few excuses if City does not win its first home game of the season.

"The last thing he said to me was, 'Be ready for the next game'" Milner said. "And then he said, 'Be ready to win the Premier League.' That's what I want to do and why I'm here."

"That's my ultimate aim.

KEVIN C. COX/GETTY IMAGES

City was mostly undone last season by dropping points in the first half of the campaign, so a strong start this time is crucial. City was dominated last weekend by Tottenham, the team that edged it to fourth place and the final Champions League qualifying berth, but escaped with a 0-0 draw.

Liverpool almost beat Arsenal before a last-minute own-goal by goalkeeper Pepe Reina handed the Gunners a 1-1 draw, but midfielder Joe Cole will be suspended after a red card on his debut, giving Mancini an opportunity to select a more attacking lineup.

With home advantage and without the dangerous Cole to mark, Mancini is unlikely to play three defensive midfielders as he did last weekend.

Arsenal hosts Blackpool (TSN, 10 a.m. ET) in a fixture that looks a lot trickier after the unheralded newcomer won its Premier League debut 4-0 at Wigan.

Arsenal will still be favourite to win despite the absence of midfielder Samir Nasri following minor knee surgery, but Blackpool showed it can pass the ball as well as many topflight sides.

Send a KISS

Show some love! Send a note to somebody special at kiss@metronews.ca

I, You mean everything to me...I think about you night and day! Please let me back in your life. Our future was meant to be spent together. Let's walk down that long, lonely road together and find some happiness. Still breathlessly waiting,
D

I would like to wish a Happy "Champagne" Birthday to my little sister Ashley on Aug 20/10. Happy 20th Birthday Ash, hope you have an AWESOME day. Can't wait to party tonight. Next year...VEGAS!! Love you lots!
~ YOUR BIG SISTER BRENDA~

Erin, falling in love with you is so easy and natural. You have made this the best summer of my life! We have so much to be excited about for our future and I can't wait for our vacation next week!!!
XOXO IAN

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Your head is telling you one thing and your heart is telling you another and you know there can only be one winner. With Mars, your ruler, close to love planet Venus today feelings will count more than thoughts.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 No matter how much work you have on your plate you will get through it in record time today. Everything will go according to plan.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 If you are looking for love you will find it over the next 24 hours. Someone who is your perfect match in every way will come into your life and before you know it you will be an item. A match made in Heaven!

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 The atmosphere on the home front will be excellent today, not least because you are full of life and laughter and love and your attitude rubs off on other people.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Forget about your worries. Forget about your chores. The only thing you should be thinking about today is having fun. Make the most of the Sun in your sign to shine brighter than ever before — and that's pretty bright.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 There may be unexpected bills to pay over the next 24 hours but don't let it worry you because you'll find the cash somewhere.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Venus, your ruler, allied to Mars in your sign endows you with the kind of energy and spirit of enterprise that you wish you could hold on to every day of the year.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Something good is about to come into your life, something that has the potential to make your existence more enjoyable and rewarding.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 One of the best aspects of the year takes place today in the area of your chart that governs friendships and group activities. Don't hide yourself away at home or in the office — get out into the world where you can be seen.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You can persuade almost anyone to do almost anything for you today. No doubt that information will get your mind moving in all sorts of ways but it's in the work area that you will really shine.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Venus and Mars in your fellow Air sign of Libra will bring you the good things in life. Don't feel in the least bit guilty about enjoying them.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 A secret crush won't be secret much longer as you are finding it increasingly difficult to keep your feelings to yourself. Why not come right out and tell that special someone how you feel? SALLY BROMPTON
